Customer Reviews

Rachel Dylan brings us a suspenseful romance that pulled me in from the very first page. This is a spectacular read. She incorporates both turmoil and spine tingling suspense. We are introduced to Hope Finch and Gabe Marino. Hope is presently a 5th year associate with Rice and Taylor, a prestigious law firm in New York. Gabe is a Special Agent with the FBI field office in Atlanta. He lives in Maxwell, Georgia which is about a 30 minute commute to Atlanta. With an influx of crime in Maxwell Gabe has his eye on Carlos Nola, a board member and employee of Wakefield Corporation. Wakefield is currently in litigation with Cyber Future over a breach of contract and set to go to trial. Sam Upton the lead attorney for Wakefield has given Hope the opportunity to be second chair during the trial. This is not only a set up for Hope, but also a dream come true. She travels to Maxwell to work with local representation, Trent Law Firm, to prepare for the trial and work with her key witness Carlos Nola. Several threads are woven into the story that give you a sense of Maxwell as a small town full of southern charm. Upon Hope's arrival important factors are brought to the surface and she realizes things are more complicated than she had imagined. Hope feels she has one focus and that is the trial and her job, but suddenly she finds herself a target in a corporate cover up. Gabe is suddenly sidetracked from his investigation of Nola after several attempts have been made on Hope. He realizes that she has come to mean more to him personally, but a relationship isn't possible until this mystery is solved. This is a great book full of suspense and will keep you guessing until the end. The characters and setting are detailed and perceptive. With Ms.
